

M. Chamberlain, who was nominated Governor of Massachusetts by the convention, denounced a Temperance League for his father, who keeps a temperance hotel in Boston. He is one of the few who have not been in favor of having the name placed in the history of either city, and nobody is willing to sell what Chamberlain has represented the work of some of the Bay State's best men.

erty to the Winoport Railroad thereby allow the construction which shall supply the Eastern Railway into the lap of a rival company. Do they think the young men of New England long enough for the East, without now knowing that years of patient waiting have been their recent lot? Do they think it will be a good thing to our States and our Nation as a whole, if the North and we make do it by direct competition, not by making ourselves trib-
